Among First Hosted in the Expanded Javits Center Scheduled for Completion in 2021

NEW YORK (November 19, 2019) – The Javits Center today announced that two industry-leading events, International Contemporary Furniture Fair (ICFF) and Lightfair, will co-locate their events at the Javits Center during NYCxDESIGN in 2021 and then again in 2023, 2025, 2027 and 2029. The announcement comes as the unprecedented expansion project at the Javits Center is scheduled to be completed in 2021, adding 1.2 million square feet of total event-related space to the convention center on Manhattan’s West Side.

The long-term commitment by these design-related events reinforces the significance of the recent infrastructure and operational improvements at the Javits Center, as well as the new dynamic spaces being constructed as part of the ongoing expansion project. Spearheaded by Governor Andrew M. Cuomo and Empire State Development, the $1.5 billion design-build project will include a 53,000 special event space, a rooftop pavilion and outdoor terrace and the creation of 500,000 square feet of contiguous exhibit space on one level. ICFF and Lightfair will be among the first events to be hosted at the expanded venue, which will attract more blockbuster events to New York City and New York State, including high-impact business conferences, worldwide product launches and fundraising galas.

“Bringing these two major design-related events together will create a real impact in New York City and New York State,” said Alan Steel, President and CEO of the New York Convention Center Operating Corporation, which operates the Javits Center. “ICFF already plays a major role in the international furniture events calendar, and adding Lightfair to the presentation every other year will boost the prestige of both events and give even more reason for national and international business visitors to come to New York. The first joint presentation coincides with the 2021 opening of our expansion and serves as a testament to substantial investment in the Javits Center made by Governor Cuomo and his team.”

“The ICFF LightFair co-location in 2021 further builds on the momentum of the ICFF-Wanted Design Manhattan co-location in 2020 and makes the Javits Center a truly multi-discipline design resource center for the North American A&D community,” said ICFF Show Director Phil Robinson.

“Presenting LightFair at the Javits Center alongside ICFF during NYCxDesign is the ultimate opportunity to showcase our exhibitors’ innovations in lighting and technology and our conference presenters’ thought leadership to the global design community,” said Lightfair Show Director Dan Darby. “We look forward to using the center’s updated spaces and amenities to present an engaging and inspirational LightFair experience for all of our attendees.”

“We are very pleased to welcome LightFair back to New York City and to see the show collocate with ICFF every other year beginning in 2021,” said NYC & Company President and CEO Fred Dixon. “This exciting new arrangement further enhances NYC’s position as the global intersection for commerce and innovation, and positions the newly expanded Javits Center as the ultimate backdrop for New York City’s most iconic events and trade shows.”

“The collocation of ICFF, one of NYCxDESIGN’s anchor events, with Lightfair is a strong addition to NYCxDESIGN’s programming,” said Edward A. Hogikyan, Vice President and Executive Director, NYCxDESIGN. “This creates yet another reason why NYCxDESIGN can’t be missed for our over 300,000 domestic and international attendees each year.”
